

30+ art exhibitions to see in London during Frieze Week 2025

Frieze London and Frieze Masters return to Regent's Park from 15–19 October 2025, marking the much-anticipated return of what is known as Frieze Week. Beyond the fairs themselves, galleries and institutions across the city present exhibitions, performances and installations, highlighting London's role as a centre for artistic discussion. From major retrospectives and new commissions to cross-disciplinary projects, Frieze Week offers a unique opportunity to experience the breadth of London's art scene.

Here is our guide to 30+ exhibitions not to miss in London during Frieze Week.

#FLODown: Metamorfosi, the second UK solo exhibition by acclaimed Italian sculptor Massimiliano Pelletti, opens as the inaugural show in Bowman Sculpture's newly redesigned Mayfair gallery. Renowned for reinterpreting classical antiquity through a contemporary lens, Pelletti's latest works fracture and reassemble familiar forms into entirely new myths: Greco-Roman gods entwined with African deities, bodies that oscillate between flesh and stone, and figures that transform classical archetypes into strikingly original forms. Carved from rare marbles and crystalline minerals, his sculptures embrace imperfections as intrinsic to their meaning, creating hybrid figures that bridge past and present while pulsating with life.

Date: 9 October – 7 November 2025, Location: Bowman Sculpture, 6 Duke Street, St. James's, London SW1Y 6BN. Price: Free. bowmansculpture.com
